The Scoring Factory is excited to announce tryouts in March 2016 for our inaugural Youth Development Academy for boys and girls in grades 2nd through 7th. For the first time ever, our superior coaching techniques will be available on a broader scale.

We will build a true club structure with a built-in support system encompassing all aspects of player development, exposure and recruiting assistance under one umbrella. Our Academy will vigorously promote individual growth within a team environment, creating a versatile and complete basketball player.

“My son Geno started training with The Scoring Factory early in his development and it’s the best decision we ever made. The instruction and guidance were instrumental in him receiving a college scholarship.” — Gene Thorpe

We will employ a specialized teaching curriculum including classroom components incorporating aspects of the renowned European methodology. Our objective is long-term development and creating a brighter future for Pittsburgh’s basketball landscape.

“They (Europeans) spend all that time on shooting and passing and dribbling and fundamentals and playing together.” — Greg Popovich, NBA San Antonio Spurs

Players will be exposed to professional instruction through consistent and intense practices and scrimmages. Teams will compete in local games and enter AAU tournaments. The Academy will focus on skill development, hard-nosed defense and the construction of a broad basketball IQ.

“I just think European players are just way more skillful. They are just taught the game the right way at an early age.” — Kobe Bryant, NBA L.A. Lakers

Short-term wins are not our goal and there will be no pressure to win at all costs. There are no shortcuts to excellence! Our long-term strategy is to build toward properly prepared older age groups who can then travel the country to gain exposure against elite competition.

Tryouts are open to players of all abilities as we build a true club program. Chemistry, attitude and desire will be prized components of every player from every team. Those who invest in their child’s future now, will be rewarded in the future with a fully developed basketball player.

“Fundamentals, discipline, constructive feedback, smart work and fun. We want to help Pittsburgh area youth receive more college scholarships than ever before and put players in a position to reach their dreams.” — Pete Strobl, Founder of The Scoring Factory
YOUTH DEVELOPMENT ACADEMY
Upon retiring from playing nine highly successful seasons in the European Leagues, Pete Strobl recognized a dire need for advanced training and skills development in the Pittsburgh area. He founded The Scoring Factory in 2009 as an answer to that demand implementing years of priceless professional training and experience.

Our alumni have earned their way to successful high school, college and professional careers through smart work and perseverance. Coaches and scouts have come to recognize and appreciate our high standards making The Scoring Factory a regular destination for recruiters at every level.

“Details, skill development and repetition. I wouldn’t have made it where I am today without The Scoring Factory.” – Brianna Kiesel, University of Pittsburgh, WNBA Tulsa Shock

Headquartered at the historic Pittsburgh Athletic Association in Oakland, The Scoring Factory coaching team includes experts in all aspects of the game stacked with former professionals, college standouts and local coaching legends.

From the ACC to The Big 10, The Scoring Factory has trained student-athletes from every Division I NCAA conference. At the professional level, players from The Scoring Factory have competed in over twenty-five countries around the world.

Let us help you take your game to the next level.
